Benefit Concert To-Night and Friday

Council Organized For "Yes" Vote

ASSESSMENT ON INDUSTRIES DISCUSSED

At the regular meeting of the town council on Monday evening the following motion, moved by Deputy-Reeve Vale and seconded by Alderman Frank Bowser was passed—

"Whereas this council deems it imperative that every step be taken to ensure a large affirmative vote at the forthcoming plebiscite.

"Therefore it is resolved that the Mayor be authorized to appoint a committee of this council to arrange for an organization to get out the vote on the day of polling."

"If the council supported it, it would look as if it was a non-political organization," stated the Deputy-Reeve.

"At an organization meeting at the town hall on Friday night it was decided that the council of each municipality appoint a committee to see about getting the vote out," said Clerk N. L. Mathews.

"We should start the ball rolling," continued Deputy-Reeve Vale.

"If it was sponsored by the council it would be a lot easier to approach people. In the first place we need scrutineers. Labor is scarce and I believe we could very easily approach the High School about getting some fifth form students. It would be splendid experience for them."

"As the result of a letter received from the Department of Municipal Affairs about assessments, the industries have met with us and are willing to play ball," stated Reeve Lundy. "We do not know anything definite until the Finance Committee has had a chance to go into the matter. I believe we will come out of this with a good feeling all around. The Department has overlooked the business assessments altogether. Davis Leather is assessed at $39,000 on the building, and in addition $23,400 for business. The Office Specialty $30,000 on the building, $50,000 on the business and in addition $2,000 on lands. As soon as we have something definite we will come back to you with a plan which will be final."

"I think it is none of our business to assess properties but apparently every time I stick my chin out I get slapped," said Mayor Dales. "I believe it is the business of the assessor. But if the council want to do it, it is their business. I leave it to the solicitor to tell us if it is correct. It is wrong for us to assess or tell the assessor what to do. We can get

To Give Talk On Preventable Illness

MISS EDNA MOORE
HERE MONDAY,
MAY 4

Concerned over the number of days lost by school children owing to preventable illness, the Home and School Association, with other service groups, have invited Miss Edna L. Moore from the department of the Honourable Harold Kirkby, Minister of Health, to discuss the question of public health. The discussion will take place in the Town Hall Monday, May 4, at 8 p.m.

If we are to develop a generation with strong bodies and keen healthy minds, there must be constant checking of physical and mental weaknesses. Defective eyesight, hearing diseased teeth and tonsils should be discovered as early as possible and proper steps taken for their correction.

Too slowly we are coming to realize that it is just as important that mental disturbances in little minds be discovered and cured. There is considerable evidence that for every class of forty pupils in our schools today, an average of two will spend part of their life in a mental hospital. Firstly, because of the child, and then because of the tremendous cost involved it is necessary that teachers and health workers be constantly on the alert to discover signs of weakness which may lead to serious mental disturbances later on.

It is appalling to think of the number of teachers in Ontario who have to carry on their work without the guidance and assistance of a school nurse or a school doctor.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Robt. Graves, Niagara St., celebrated her 84th birthday last Saturday, but some who were unable to be present on Saturday continued the celebration by coming to tea on Sunday and bringing a second birthday cake and other good things that constitute a birthday party.

She received many birthday greeting cards from relatives and friends, and beautiful gifts from her family who gathered to do her honor on Sunday, while twelve more gathered to do her honor on Sunday afternoon. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Will Prosser and family of Keswick, and Mr. and Mrs. Evans of Virginia and their daughter Frances, a teacher in Oshawa. Mrs. Graves enjoyed it all, and to show that age has not robbed her of the voice that has charmed many in former years, sang for her guests.

The children of the Sunday school sang a hymn and repeated a verse for her: "Many happy returns of the day of your birthday, May sunshine and gladness be given, and may the dear Lord prepare you for a beautiful birthday in Heaven."

LIONS AND PAPER RECEIVE LETTERS

Letters of appreciation for cigarettes sent to Newmarket boys overseas, are received every few days by secretary H. Gilroy. The following are a few of the "thank you" letters.

Somewhere in England, Wed., March 18, 1942.

Dear Ang:
May I take this opportunity to express my thanks for The Express-Herald. It is just recently that I received my first copy of your paper. Up until now I have received three issues.

We are always pleased to receive news of Newmarket and vicinity. It serves to keep us informed of the progress which the old home town is making. In the last issue of your paper, which I received, I was interested to read an account of the Soldiers' Club which has been opened in Newmarket.

I feel sure your club will be a great success and very popular with the soldiers. It is such clubs over here which help the boys. Having some place to go, they are not so likely to sit around and brood.

Through your newspaper, I should like to convey to the Newmarket Veterans' Association, as well as to the various other organizations, my deep appreciation and gratitude for the cigarettes and parcels which they have sent to us. Thanks, also, to those who have contributed to make these gifts possible. I feel sure that I express the sentiments of the other boys as well as those of myself in saying: "Thanks a million!"

Well, Ang, it is 10.30 now, and after "lights out," so I had better sign off before the orderly sergeant comes making trouble.

Once again, thank you all very much.

Yours sincerely,

Allan McDonald.

Dear Sirs:
A very pleasant surprise was mine today when I received your cigarettes. I am deeply grateful to your organization for your kindness and wish you every success. I am feeling fine (and seem to thrive on the English weather). Thanks again for the smokes.

The regular meeting of the Lions Club will be held on Tuesday evening instead of Monday so as to avoid in any way with the getting out of a full vote for the plebiscite. One of the objectives of the club is "Our Nation's Safety," and it is very fitting that the club should support the campaign for a strong "Yes."

Newmarket Girls' Bridge Club:

Miss L. Daniel, Pres.
I want to thank all the young ladies very much for the swell parcel received last night. It just so happened my birthday was yesterday, March 17, and your parcel arrived at the right time. The food didn't last long. I can assure you. All there is left is a little cocoa, and it will be used up tonight. The writing paper and envelopes are "tops" as good writing paper and envelopes are very scarce here. The tin of tomato juice was delicious and the corn too. It was the first time I've tasted either one in eight months.

I want to thank especially those who sent the sweater, socks and gloves. So often the intentions are the very best, but size is not right. Your gifts fit me perfectly, and thanks again.

I want to thank you all sincerely for the lovely parcel. Hoping to see you all soon, when this is over, and thank you all personally. I remain,

Yours sincerely,

then time and fate will soon settle that. Until then all we can do is do everything the best we can and have plenty of patience.

The weather here is somewhat different to what it is in Canada, but we are becoming accustomed to it though it does catch us by surprise often enough. DRIVING LICENSE CANCELLED FOR THREE YEARS

"I have given your case serious consideration since last week," said Magistrate W. E. McIlveen at Newmarket Police Court on Tuesday to Murray Johnson of Queensville, who last week was remanded in custody on a charge of dangerous driving as the result of an accident on April 5, when Eric Pickrell was killed. "All sentences are given with a two-fold object, the first punishment to yourself and the second for the benefit of other people. I feel that any punishment I could give you would be nothing in comparison with your mental suffering. But I feel, as a warning to other people, that I still have that in front of me. You have been very leniently dealt with. The offence is the most serious in the act—cutting in or racing. Your actions were not the result of mistaken judgment. You passed and re-passed. On account of your youth and the evidence of character on your behalf I feel you are too young to go to the Reformatory. But young men in this district should know that they are liable to end up just as you have. You might just as well have taken two rifles at each other. On account of your youth I sentence you to two months in jail, and cancel your license to drive for three years."

Previous to the sentence being passed, Percy James of Queensville, a neighbour of the accused, gave character evidence on behalf of accused.

"It was merely a youthful prank," stated Mr. Lorne C. Lee of Aurora, defence counsel. "This boy has had a good deal of mental injury to himself in addition to being brought to court. He has already served a week in jail. He has worked to go to immediately on a farm near Beaverton."

Murray Graham of Tottenham, and Frank Fidler of Cookstown, charged by Constable Ronald Watt with having bad brakes, were each fined $10 and costs.

Robert Morning of Holland Landing, charged by Constable Fleury with having no operator's license, was fined $10, including costs. Accused stated that he had a temporary license.

William Ransom of Aurora, charged with careless driving by Constable Ferguson, was fined $15 and $2.75 costs.

GLEE CLUB GIVE EXCELLENT PERFORMANCE

An evening of exceptional merit was presented by the Glee Club of the Newmarket High School on Friday evening when this group, under the direction of Miss Lunn, sang the much-loved songs of Stephen Foster. Solo numbers by Ruby Strasser, Betty Ross, Betty Hope and Bob Brooks were delightful, the young artists showing rare promise.

The girls' three-part chorus, with soprano obligato by Ruby Strasser, caught the fancy of the audience, and the two songs "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" and "Beautiful Dreamer" were loudly encored. Adding greatly to the general effect was the artistic stage setting supervised by Miss Annie Kling.

At the conclusion of the first part Bob Brooks expressed the thanks of the Glee Club to Miss Lunn, while pretty petite Betty Fisher presented her with a bouquet of red roses.

Then followed the one-act comedy "Little Darling," under the direction of Mr. Garrett.

This lovely fast-moving comedy was presented in masterly fashion by the caste who romped through their parts without a prompt, and all took their roles as if the stage was their profession.

Mona Dean, Margaret Goldsmith, John Fraser, Gwen Smith, Gene Burrows and Evelyn Cowleson all deserve the co-star rating.

EDITORIAL

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

Monday is an important day to Canada, Canadians and you. On that day you will vote on what has been described as "the conscription plebiscite." You will be asked to vote "yes" or "no" to the question: "Are you in favour of releasing the Government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military services?"

While many are howling to high heaven what Quebec will do, it also appears that some in our community are going to vote "no" for one of several reasons—"that a yes vote is a vote of confidence in the Liberal Government, that the Government should have gone ahead without the expense of an election and that I have no right to vote to send somebody else's son overseas."

In the first place this is not a vote of confidence. Far from it. Secondly, the government has the power under the War Measures Act, to enforce conscription for overseas service, but you will recall all parties at the last general election forcibly declared there would be no conscription for overseas service and with the others the Liberal party gave that promise. What would you expect a C.C.F. or Conservative Government would have done if in power?

Prime Minister King recently stated: "With regard to raising men compulsorily for service there is no commitment when the service is confined to Canada. But when resort is to be had to conscription, in other words to the 'method' of conscription, for raising men for overseas service, there is a commitment which binds the government, a commitment made before we entered the war... a commitment which has been made time and time again."

With reference to the wording the Prime Minister continued: "We wish to make the language so broad that there can be no misgiving as to any commitment from now on which relates to the method of raising men for service overseas. If this plebiscite carries, neither the government nor any hon. member will be free to argue that we cannot decide upon conscription nor any other question with respect to our war effort because of a certain commitment."

The explanation given by the Prime Minister should be a sufficient clarification of why the plebiscite must be taken. The government, prior to election, went on record as opposing conscription for overseas service. Today, because of the threat to the safety of this country, because of the threat to the Empire itself, the government is asking to be relieved of that pledge in order that sufficient steps can be taken to safeguard the Dominion—and it goes without saying that the Dominion cannot be safeguarded unless the Empire is safeguarded also. One depends upon the other.

To the other question of sending somebody else's son overseas, we admit it should be given careful thought in our hearts as well as our minds. The editor of this journal, though single, is past the age for an early call, and if he didn't feel the urge to be serving his country in some other capacity than in the weekly newspaper field, and if he didn't have fond hope that before the weather becomes warm enough for shorts he would be serving, he would hesitate to come out flat-footed for a "yes" vote. Fellow Canadian, if you really want the United Nations to win, if you want this land of ours to be free of Hitler and his ravishing hordes that have played such havoc in overrun countries, if you want to keep that away from your doorstep vote "yes." Mr. Industrialist, if you vote "yes" be prepared to go "all out" for these men after they have been returned to civilian life. Mr. Financier, if you vote "yes" to send some youth to protect your gold and your investments be prepared also to pay a full share.

Let us individually think of these things when we mark our ballot "yes" on Monday.

AN AIR OFFENSIVE

It was high time Americans began to learn something of Japanese geography—for instance, that industrial centers like Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, and Kobe lie near the "border" and are open to air raids. While waiting for their own government to confirm the attacks announced by Japanese radio stations and to disclose details Americans may usefully consider certain factors relating to the news, editorially comments the Christian Science Monitor.

There is good reason to believe that a raid of some consequence was made on the main island, Honshu, on April 18. Latest reports are so circumstantial in describing measures for rebuilding and for maintaining transport schedules as to indicate real damage.

Already it is clear that the effect on United Nations morale is good. China is cheered. In Chungking, which has been half destroyed by repeated Japanese bombings without being able to strike back, valiant civilians find new courage. The Chinese, who have seen the Burma Road and other links with their Allies broken recently, needed assurance that help can come over new paths in the air.

London, shocked by naval losses and forced for so long to report the Japanese scoring on British and American forces, could count a surprise for the Allies. Moreover, Britain hoped that an attack on her home islands might persuade Japan to pull back some of the forces that threaten India.

If the bombers came from American carriers—which is the most common explanation—we have an encouraging evidence of co-ordination by the United Nations. For American admirals seem to have timed this attack to seize the opening left when Japan sent a large force against the British in the Bay of Bengal. Should it be found that the planes came from Alaska, China, or Russia equally encouraging possibilities are opened up.

The military effects—as distinguished from effects on morale—should not be overestimated. Japan has vulnerable water supplies and accurate bombing might cause serious trouble by hitting industrial bottlenecks. The Japanese may have been upset—reports of a second alarm would indicate some fitters—and forced into costly defensive measures. There will be real military advantage if forces are withdrawn from Japanese far-flung offensive front. But the people are well disciplined, and decisions are likely to be governed by military needs rather than popular hysteria.

Americans would do well to realize that this was only a raid, and necessarily on a smaller scale than the great air attacks the British and Russians are turning on the Nazis almost daily. Indeed useful as raids on Japan may be, Americans will do well to give attention also to European geography—where an air offensive can be combined with and supported by a drive on land against the main strength of the Axis, Germany.

A "yes" vote will mean that Canada is ready to fight total war with total war. A negative vote will be an admission that we are still blind to the true dangers this and every democratic nation faces. To turn down this opportunity to show the United Nations that we are with them and behind them 100 per cent., would be tantamount to burying our heads in the sand. An affirmative vote is essential, not only to our own safety and security, but to our national pride as well. A negative would be a tremendous blow to the prestige of our fair Dominion.

The Weekly Press and The Plebiscite

From our exchanges we have clipped the following editorial expressions of the weekly press. With but one exception they favor a "Yes" vote.

In the interest of Canada vote "Yes" on April 27.—Temiskaming Speaker.

Plebiscite "No" would be national tragedy.—Gore Bay Recorder.

On April 27 Canada should speak with overwhelming vigor in the matter of giving full powers to Canadian leaders not only to utilize all manpower, but to use every means possible to launch a determined offensive against the enemy, through a complete mobilization of every resource this country has at its command. Vote "Yes" on the plebiscite.—Northern News, Kirkland Lake.

A "Yes" vote on the plebiscite a week from Monday places upon the Federal Government the direct responsibility of shaping the future all-out war policies of Canada in accordance with needs as they present themselves. A "No" vote will tie their hands, and restrict freedom of action which in itself is vital to the future development of war issues.—Carleton Place Canadian.

Do not misunderstand. The government is not asking anyone to vote for conscription or any other special war purpose. It simply asks for a "yes" vote that it may be free from pre-election pledges and in the future meet conditions and situations as they come. The hope is that every Canadian will give an affirmative reply on April 27. With the way clear the responsibility will be beyond question with the government.—Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin.

The weekly press is urged to give its support in emphasizing the urgency of the Plebiscite vote. Before any definite announcement was made regarding the holding of a Plebiscite we expressed our own personal view that it would be unwise and unnecessary. However, that is neither here nor there. The vital necessity now is that the Plebiscite should have not just a majority, but a VERY SUBSTANTIAL MAJORITY. No matter what your political affiliations may be, and whether you are one of those who habitually do not exercise your franchise, this is once when you should not fail to vote.—Markham Economist and Sun.

We have carefully refrained from dwelling on this topic in the past—we thought we had a good reason. Physically unable to join the forces we saw no reason why we should force others to go. The government and the various parties however are most anxious that every possible vote be registered on Monday, April 27. The Government claims it is not soliciting our support for an expression of opinion one way or the other on the plebiscite but it does seek our aid in getting out the vote. This is a critical time in our national life and on behalf of the Government of Canada we ask your support. Get out and vote "Yes."—The Liverpool Advance (Nova Scotia).

Our clear-cut duty is to vote "Yes;" to free the government's and parliament's hands for untrammelled action in whatever emergency may arise. By voting "Yes," an elector will not be compelling any other citizen to fight overseas. He will simply be removing the barrier which now stands in the way of parliament making that decision if it is found necessary. The responsibility is parliament's. The responsibility for freeing parliament is the electors. A "Yes" vote will not only give the Government the release it asks, but will afford evidence to the world that Canada's heart is in the war effort.—Bolton Enterprise.

We know not what the future holds for Canada or the world. We hope the tide of battle which has been against us, will turn in our favor. But on the other hand the situation may get much worse and we must be prepared to rally all the resources of the country for its defence. To do this the people of Canada must answer an overwhelming majority of "yes" votes in the coming plebiscite.

In North York a Citizens Committee has been organized which solicits the support of every citizen in seeing that a large vote is polled in this riding. Volunteer to help in your own community.

Vote "Yes" and work for a large "yes" majority in your own polling division.—Richmond Hill Liberal.

NEW TELEPHONES RIGIDLY RESTRICTED

Because war needs must come first and telephone facilities must prove equal to any demands having to do with the war, new telephone installations must be rigidly restricted.

That is the announcement made by Bell Telephone officials today in conformity with the Order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, dealing with telephone services.

"The main factors in the telephone situation," said manager Harold McClelland of the Bell Company, "are that orders for telephone installations have been coming in since the first of the year at an even greater rate than last year, and 1941 was the record year in our history. Of the 63,000 net gain in telephones last year, 44,500 were for residence service, and the preponderance of orders for home telephones is continuing."

"Then there is acute and growing shortage of the materials required to make telephones and telephone equipment. Such things as copper, tin, zinc, steel and rubber are urgently needed for war supplies. Even when we employ a maximum of repaired and re-conditioned apparatus, the demand on the dwindling supply of vital materials is far too great. We must safeguard telephone equipment so that we may be always in a position to provide facilities for the war services, for the manufacturers of munitions and supplies and for other essential purposes. The service must be maintained at the highest level of efficiency."

"The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has directed us to do all such things as may be requisite to conserve any and all telephone plant and facilities."

"We shall need the cordial co-operation of the public in this. We are confident that when applicants reflect that the needs of the war and the vital services must be promptly met, they will gladly forego all but the most urgent installations, for that will be another way of helping to win the war."

Elsie: "My husband is an efficiency expert in a large office."
Naomi: "What does an efficiency expert do?"
Elsie: "Well, if we women did it they would call it nagging."

JOHN ROWLAND DIES OUTSTANDING CITIZEN

Born At Mount Albert

Ill for six months, John Albert Rowland, Walmer Rd., general manager of the Canada Permanent Trust Co., died suddenly at his home early Saturday.

A classical scholar, outstanding lawyer, financier, and philanthropist, Mr. Rowland was also one of Canada's leading Masons. Past master of Harmony Lodge A.F. and A.M., he was grand master of the grand lodge of Canada (Ontario) 1925-1927. He was representative of the United Grand lodge of England since 1930, and sovereign grand commander of the supreme council Scottish Rite since 1940, and representative of the supreme council for Ireland.

His physician and friend since University days, Dr. Jabez H. Elliott said: "He was one of those rare spirits, modest, interested in all good works, one of the best Canadian citizens."

Besides being general manager of the Canada Permanent Trust Co., Mr. Rowland was joint general manager of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corp., and first vice-president and director of both companies. He shared this honor with C. S. Robertson in the dual management. He was also a director of the Continental Life Insurance Co.

It was in 1935 that Mr. Rowland was appointed to general management of the Canada Permanent Trust. He was born in the township of Scott, Ontario county, on Feb. 18, 1875. His father, Robert Rowland, was one of the early settlers in Ontario county. His mother was Sophia French. He was educated at the public school in Mount Albert, the high schools at Markham and Kincardine, and the University of Toronto.

He graduated from University of Toronto in 1896 with honors in classics, and entered Osgoode Hall law school. In 1898 he went to the University of California on a fellowship in Latin and Greek. In 1904 he married Evelyn Weaver, daughter of the late Samuel Weaver of Kitchener. His wife survives with one son, Joan F. (Jack) Rowland, now on active service with the 26th Army Tank Battalion; two brothers, Dr. Charles Rowland of Wallaceburg, and Robert Rowland of Toronto; and two sisters, Miss Etta Rowland of Toronto and Mrs. Ethel Nicholson of Chicago.

Called to the bar of Ontario in 1900 he practised law in Toronto as a partner in the firm of MacDonald, Garvey and Rowland. He was also called to the bar in British Columbia in 1905.

He was a member of the board for the Toronto Hospital for incurables, a Conservative, and a member of the United Church. Curling and lawn bowling were his chief diversions, and he once went to the British lawn bowling tournament in England.

One of his hobbies was bringing along promising young businessmen, particularly those with legal training, but he often contended that in the profession of law "there are no hard and fast rules leading to success." He always laid stress on character and integrity as the foundation stone. "A little knowledge of law," he would say with a smile, "is no impediment to a law clerk."

Simply marked the funeral service at the Timothy Eaton Memorial church on Monday conducted by Rev. Trevor H. Davies, friend and former pastor, assisted by Rev. David A. MacLennan, present pastor. Burial at Mount Pleasant cemetery.

ST. PAUL'S RED CROSS TOWN HALL TO-NIGHT

We understand that the scalpers were asking as high as $9 per ticket for the last Stanley Cup game in Toronto.

Do not encourage scalpers! If you hurry you can still buy a few tickets at Patterson's for Town Hall tonight (and to-morrow).

Music, song, dance and drama are all represented in that Play-Ballet-Concert Night given by the local artists under the auspices of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid and with half of the proceeds going to the local Red Cross Society.

Here are the highlights of the programme:

Jean Davis, delightful as ever, only more so since her voice grew stronger in the past year, will sing again.

The noble cast of five dramatists headed by Dr. Noble, will present a stirring drama about "The Old Bull" and what happens when . . . ah, but we mustn't tell.

And the beautiful ballerinas between the ages of four and twenty-four in stunning costumes—Russians, Hungarians, Daffodils, Bugs, Forget-me-nots, and what nots, will dance to the strains of both romantic and exotic music that will take you away from your troubles, will make you lean back in your chair and relax, or lean forward (depending on your temperament) and say: "By cracky, these girls ARE peaches."

It's Town Hall To-night!

MacTavish was enjoying himself at a conjuring show and was particularly interested when the conjurer shut up a woman in a cabinet and then opening it after a few moments, produced a parrot in her place. Going to see the conjurer after the show, he said: "If I brought the wife around to-morrow could ye do the same to her, I've promised wee Alec a parrot for a Christmas present."

CLEAR TELEPHONE LINES FOR

All-Out Production...

... To stop tanks in their tracks

The two-pound armour-piercing shells of these anti-tank guns are poison to Panzer columns. Canada is now making them in quantity. But she needs thousands more, just as fast as they can be turned out.

Many of the 500 different parts that go into these guns come from sub-contractors. The materials for these parts, in turn, come from a dozen different sources. To keep these supplies moving, busy men reach for their telephones all day long — and often far into the night — checking deliveries, issuing instructions, meeting sudden emergencies.

Don't let the careless use of your telephone cause needless delays. Every time you make a telephone call, remember this: your careful observance of "Wartime Telephone Tactics" helps to keep interlocking communication lines clear . . . permits other, important calls to get through promptly.

Weddings

MYRTLE LAURENE KEFFER WEDS WILLIAM SWEETIE

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Glenville United Church on Saturday afternoon, April 18, by the Rev. W. J. Burton when Myrtle Laurene, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Keffer of King Township was united in marriage to William Martin Sweetie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sweetie of Newmarket, R.R. 2.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of pink net trimmed with blue bows and wearing a small veil with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of red roses, sweet peas and forget-me-nots. The bridesmaid, Miss Myrtle Leone Keffer, cousin of the bride, wore blue sheer with white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations with fern. Mr. Arthur Sweetie, brother of the groom, was best man. Mrs. George Dutton, the bride's sister, played the wedding music and during the signing of the register, Miss Gladys Dew of Queensville sang. The ushers were two brothers of the bride, Roy and Lorne Keffer.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. On their return from a short honeymoon, the young couple will reside on the Gibney farm on the second concession of East Gwillimbury.

Both wore corsages of sweetheart roses. The groom was attended by Sgt. Major Johnson. Rev. Arthur Greer, pastor of the church officiated, with Mrs. W. B. Epworth at the organ.

Immediately following the ceremony the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for points east.

In the absence of her father overseas, the bride was given in marriage by her mother, and wore a brown ensemble with corsage of gardenias. She was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Davies, in navy and white with matching accessories. Mr. E. R. Mather of the Pickering College staff, acted as groomsmen.

A reception followed at the Granite club, where the bride's mother received in an ensemble of navy and powder blue with corsage of roses. A number of members of the Pickering College staff and their wives were among the guests.

The bride, who has been soloist at Erskine Church, is known in Newmarket, where for several years she has been one of the guest soloists in the Gilbert and Sullivan productions. In "The Gondoliers" last month she played the role of the Duchess of Plaza-Toro delightfully.

Such wonderful weather we are having this past few days—chilly a bit, but such gorgeous blue skies. The grass turned green overnight, and now the trees are starting to leaf out. When spring does come, it comes "with a bang," you might say. Last week's snow seems to have done the flowers no harm, and I do believe it helped the grass and flower borders.

I had a grand bunch of pussy-willows brought to me last week, and the folks who have hystericas from the woods in their flower borders have plenty of bloom. The ferns are beginning to show life, and all the perennials are looking fine. It won't be long now! The English violets form a perfect carpet of purple and green, while their perfume is exquisite. The pulmonaria, with its dainty pink and mauve flowers, call for admiration from every passer-by.

Presently the tulips and daffodils will be in full bloom, for already they are full of buds. Everybody has the "Spring Fever," raking and sweeping up the leaves that escaped last fall. Bonfires aplenty and men with rollers smoothing boulevard and lawn. The weather has been just right for such activities, not too hot as yet, for usually we jump from winter to summer. We still must keep furnace fires going for nights and mornings are cool.

Today is St. George's Day. "St. George and Merry England" was once the battle cry of Britain, and today April 23 will be celebrated in all parts of the Empire. The old legend of St. George freeing the maiden from the dragon will once again be told, and great deeds done on this wonderful day recounted. And these legends have constituted him the patron saint, not only of England, but of Chivalry in Europe in mediaeval times. And also given him a place in church history as the champion of the persecuted Christians in the days of Diocletian. Accordingly St. George is given a place in the church calendar and patriotic societies all over the Empire mark April 23 with suitable celebrations.

I think myself that it is a splendid thing to keep these old heroes alive in the memory of our young people and encourage them to pay tribute to the mighty deeds that placed them in the forefront of our nation's history. Honor and sacrifice are again virtues that are held high in esteem, as this second half of the World War exemplify day after day. St. George is a grand sample of both.

But here I am back to gardens and spring, for I've had my usual batch of requests to write about the dogs and the hens of our neighbours that play havoc in our flower borders. What can I say that will help the situation? It looks as if there is no cure for it—the hens get out, their owner apologizes and thinks that all that is necessary! Garden lovers all know the untold damage hens do at this season. Yes, and I'll add dogs to that! But all I can say is, and I admit it brings little or no comfort for the damage is done, if you can stand the misery of "Getting in Dutch" with your neighbour, then call the police and lay a complaint. If our courage fails, then we must just grin and bear it, and endeavor not to let it break up what is often a friendly neighbourhood. But you can take it from me, it is a difficult situation, and it calls for the two virtues, "bear and forbear."

One old hen in a flower-bed, even one, can do as much damage with those iron-clad scratchers of hers as anything I know short of a cyclone!

And now I have a confession to make. Yes, I am decidedly a miserable sinner, and can't bear to look my two friends, the Robins, in the face! Yes—you've guessed it! I tore down their nest this morning (and incidentally gathered up half a bushel basket of litter that composed said nest!) And I may have to do it again. You see, they will build up behind where the three wires for the electric cable that runs down the side of the house, join up near the eaves of the roof. And the electric light man warned me I must not let them build there. How astonished those poor robins must be, for I've fed and cared for them ever since they came back home. And yet, I must not let them build there in that particular place.

A neighbour came along as I was sweeping up the "sad remains" of the nest, and I was feeling very contrite, but he cheered me up by saying "you'll probably have to do it two or three times more. I had to do it three times already, and I see they still persist." It seems three robins have chosen behind (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

COUNCIL ORGANIZED FOR 'YES' VOTE

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 1.) into difficulty trying to be fair. It is outside of our jurisdiction, but if you want to play at it go ahead. It shouldn't be our concern at all.

"The Department wrote me in the first place that we didn't assess at the actual value but took the fixed assessment," stated Clerk Mathews. "I referred them to the assessor. The council can take an interest in it, but can let the assessor do it."

"I think it is quite a proper matter for the council to handle it," spoke up Deputy-Reeve Vale. "If it is our policy to encourage industries, that is our business. It would be a short-sighted policy if we didn't encourage industries to establish here."

"My interpretation of it is that it should be fixed by the assessor," insisted the Mayor. "An intelligent assessor should be able to assess. It is a matter of principle."

"A lot of things could be said about assessing industries," stated Reeve Landy. "This letter, Mr. Mayor, came to council out of a blue sky. Probably the council didn't do right by referring it to the Finance Committee, but we are getting along fine and I wouldn't want anything to obstruct it."

"I am not trying to be obstructive," answered the Mayor. "However, they are making progress so I am not objecting to it."

Mr. Weller, Jr., appeared before the council on behalf of his father, who is the contractor for the new well, with regard to some trouble they have been having with the engineers. Bills sent in to Mr. Babcock were disputed.

"I have been unable to receive a reply and do not know how to handle them," said Mr. Weller. "Money is convenient to all contractors now."

"Mr. Weller came to see me," said the Clerk. "All I had to do was to certify the bills and issue cheques. He spoke about the difference which amounts to between $800 and $1700. It seems to be very difficult for the council to decide it. I might suggest that the Water and Light Committee arrange to have Mr. Weller and the engineers attend a meeting together."

"Mr. Babcock told me different times that everything was satisfactory," said Weller.

A meeting of the committee, contractors and engineers is to be held in the near future.

"What about the dump?" asked Alderman Bowser. "To-day it was on fire. It is getting to be in a terrible condition. It is supposed to be handled by the Property Committee, but the chairman is ill."

Alderman Higginson was instructed to look after the matter and to see that the fire was put out.

ECHOES FROM THE SANCTUARY

(This column is dedicated to the task of bringing a little of the church to those who are shut-in. Its main content will be the pith or kernel of one or other of the sermons given on the previous Sunday).

"Kicking Members Out of the Church," was the title of Sunday evening's message. The writer would suggest that his shut-in friends would read the parables of "The Tares," and "The Drag-net," as told in Matthew 13: 24-30, 36-43, 47-50.

The parable of The Tares is one of the few which Jesus has partially explained. He made it clear that the Sower was Himself, that the field of the world was a good field; that the seed was good, but the Adversary the devil sowed imitation wheat which grew up with good grain. He plainly stated that one day, at the end of the age, good and bad would be separated, but He did not commission His followers to do the separating. This last phrase seems to cover the central teaching of the parable. Many commentators on the Bible believe that Jesus had in mind the church, rather than the world as a whole, when He told the parable of the wheat and the tares. When we link this story with the parable of the drag-net, that idea is enhanced.

We notice that the tares were not weeds like thistle, mustard or any plant which might be easily distinguished from the wheat. The tare is the bearded darnel, and resembles the wheat so closely in the earlier stages of growth, that it is impossible for even the trained eye of the farmer to distinguish the one from the other. Moreover, to quote Dr. Thompson, "The Palestine farmer never tries to weed out the tares, for not only would he mistake good grain for weeds, but the roots of the two are so intertwined that in pulling up one he would pull the other along with it."

To the pastor's mind, this is a perfect picture of the church in this age. Within the church's fold there is a bewildering mixture of good and bad, of tares and wheat, or of good fish and bad fish, as in the drag-net parable.

In some communions, the ideal is cherished of purging the church of its tares, and securing thereby a perfect church. But these parables teach us that good and evil will exist together until the end of the age, so that the perfect church is an utter impossibility. We all know church members whose greatest assistance to their church would be a letter of resignation. On the other hand, however, there are others in the church who appear to be excellent Christians, but who, unlike the Pharisees, are white on the outside, but repulsive within. These double-faced church members are the bane and worry of every pastor's life. He, and all his faithful members would like to pull them up like weeds, and get rid of them. But for several reasons, we hesitate to do so.

One reason we have already stated, that we are aware that the perfect church will be in heaven, and never upon earth in this age. Down through the history of the Church, groups have split off here, and other groups there, with the plan and intent of securing a perfect church. But we defy anyone to point to one group whose garments were unsullied by sin.

This fact should correct the erroneous thinking of those who refuse to join the church because there are imperfect members on its roll. The folk who claim they are in search of the perfect church are a source of amusement as well as amazement. Let me point out three fallacies in their logic:

(a) The perfect church would never accept them, for the imperfections would be too apparent.

(b) The perfect church would be a source of embarrassment to them if they could get into it. They would feel like fish out of water.

(c) The perfect church would be immediately rendered imperfect by their presence within it, for they would contaminate it.

Another reason that we hesitate to excommunicate faulty members is that we would create a worse condition than the one we tried to men. As the parable of the tares would indicate, we might pull a man out of the church, and at the same time, pull out a handful of good wheat. I know one church member who is a thorn in the side of every pastor who serves in that man's church. His dismissal would be a great blessing, in some respects. But he has a goodly wife, and four fine daughters, who all look like the genuine wheat to me. If he were weeded out his family would likely go with him, and the church would lose more wheat than tares.

You may have heard the story, which may or may not be true, of the church in Scotland which sought to purge all sinful members from its roll. This policy of excommunication went on for years, until the total membership of the church was limited to two people, a man and his wife. A neighbour said to his wife, "Well, now that you and John are the only members left, you surely ought to have a perfect church." Her complacent answer was, "Deed, and I'm not so sure about John." Somehow or other, I'm not so sure about her, either.

A third reason for hesitancy in ejecting church members is that such a program is purely negative. In the little band of Jesus' disciples, there was one man who denied Him, and another who betrayed Him. Jesus did not excommunicate either one, but continued to love them. Love won Peter back again, so that only Judas, the son of perdition, was lost. Now, it is apparent that if love will not win back these wayward church members, excommunication never will.

Fourthly, we who rule over church membership rolls, are well aware of our own imperfections. In our own personal lives, there are tares growing high, and blood-sucking leeches in the net of our human nature. Why, then, should we judge our fellows, when we know we fall so short of the glory of God.

Finally, these parables make it perfectly clear that on the Day of Judgment, separation will be made. The solemn thought to me is that those who have worked side by side in churches during this age, will then face the sad fact of separation, and the tares will be burned, while the righteous shall shine as the sun in the Kingdom of their Father.

The question we must therefore ask is not "Are you in the church?" but, "Are you IN CHRIST?" For in that day, church membership will be no entry card to heaven, but "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature," or should we say, he stands among the wheat.

Dear Girls:

In reply to receipt of your box I wish to thank you very much. Everything in it was very useful and practical. It is very nice to receive parcels from home as they usually contain the things which we lack over here. We have plenty of food, but we miss the little extras that we were used to at home.

Thanking you again for your parcel, I remain,

Scotland, Mar. 14, 1942.

I wish to thank you very much for the dandy parcel which you sent me, and which I received yesterday. I certainly appreciate it very much.

I am stationed away up in the highlands of Scotland and the weather is very bad, so the woolen goods will certainly come in handy, and as for the foodstuffs, well, all I can say is that I hope Canada doesn't have to start rationing, and I thank you very much.

Right now, the unit to which I am attached is very busy in logging and extensive military training. The work is quite interesting and the local inhabitants are quite surprised at the speed and efficiency of this unit. They are very friendly and do what they can for us in the way of entertainments, etc. However, we are all anxious once more to be on our way home.

Once more I must thank you for this parcel.

Yours ever,

SEEK RECRUITS FOR RESERVE UNIT

With the County battalion the Queen's York Rangers regiment now mobilized for active service and stationed at Camp Borden, the units 2nd Battalion are beginning a campaign to fill vacancies in the North York Reserve Company.

The Company trains at Aurora each Thursday night and numbers many Newmarket boys already, but more are needed to bring the unit to strength and to show Canada that the men of North York are on their toes for home defence. The old Aurora armoury has been completely renovated until now it is a splendid modern drill-hall and the company has complete stores to carry on extensive training.

The following men are invited to visit the armoury any Thursday night: Single men, 17, 18, and 35 to 50. Married men 31 to 50 and all from 17 to 50 married or single who are in category C. You can be examined medically, attested and equipped with a uniform in a single night and without any red tape at Aurora. Transportation from Newmarket can be arranged for you, so don't let gas rationing or lack of tires deter you from learning how to defend yourself, your family and your country. Somewhere Over Here,
March 31, 1940.

Hi Ya Ang—

Here I am with that long-promised letter I told you I would write. Here's hoping you are not so sore about the whole thing because they really keep us hopping over here. This sure is a grand country Ang, but you can give me good Canada any old day in the year.

I am just beginning to get used to the blackouts over here now. At first I ran into every post or two that was over here, but now my brain, when it works, steers me away from them all.

They talk about money in lbs. over here just like we talk of sugar by the pound. Things are pretty quiet over here at present, but no telling when it will get noisy again. Jerry sure has banged at a lot of places over here, but sooner or later he'll be sorry because when a guy gets a look at some of those places his hate for Huns increases 100 per cent, and I don't mean maybe. I won't be happy until I get a Hiny and a Jap and Wap hanging on the end of a bayonet.

Well, I am most grateful to you for sending along the paper, it sure is swell to get the news of the old town once in a while. I guess you have quite a few soldiers in town at present by what I hear in my letters.

Well Ang, I guess I had better close before I get into trouble as I am writing this in a class. Give my regards to Harvey, Hawker and Gib. See you all soon, I hope. A fond guid night,

Sgt. P. J. Pemberton.

Newmarket Veterans' Ass'n.,

Newmarket, Ont.

Att. Wm. White.

Dear Sirs:

Here comes one of your "Boys in Blue" to thank you ever so kindly for the grand parcel which I received a few days ago. I was sure pleased to hear from you again, as it makes us boys away from home know that we are not forgotten by our many friends at home. Your very well selected assortment of canned goods came at a very good time for I expect to be leaving for sea in about 4 weeks I write my final Wireless exams in two weeks and my results will decide whether I go out to sea as a qualified Telegraphist or stay here for a few more weeks. Naturally I'm hoping its the first of the two, as I'm anxious to get a "crack" at those Helmsies, in return for what they did to my Dad.

It will indeed be a pleasure to help avenge not only my Dad's sickness through the last war but for you "men" at home, too, who are unable to actively take part in this conflict. When I say men I really mean men, too. If it weren't for you folks at home to bolster our spirits we might easily become down-hearted. But the majority of us boys who are serving now are from the one and only unconquerable English blood stock. And if need be, we shall go down fighting.

For us chaps in the Navy, it can be pretty "grim" as we call it, if we are ever stranded in a life boat or a raft for days on end. But, just the same, I'm proud to be serving in the Senior Service and am willing, be it God's will, to give my all if necessary, for not only our loved ones at home but for both my dear parents who have gone to the World Beyond. I know my Dad would be very proud of me, he being a well known Veteran, and having an idea and knowing the trials and tribulations we have to go through while away from home as we are.

But, to sum it all up, all we ask of you at home is keep smiling, keep those always proud heads high, and spirits at full tide, and God will guide and lead us to an Everlasting Peace after Victory is ours.

Thanks a million again to one and all of our splendid society. I am, as always,

Very sincerely,
Frank Baillie.

Hope this conflict will come to a successful end this year, and will be seeing my wife, family and friends again.

Trusting this finds you in the best of health. Best of luck and good wishes for a successful 1942, I am,

Sincerely,
Earlby Thompson.

Dear Rose and Lu:

I received your letter the other day but I unexpectedly got a two-day leave and so I waited until now to answer.

Jack and I went to London and we had a great time. We went to Madame Tausad's exhibition. You have probably heard of it. Wax statues of people so life-like you almost mistake them for real people. The most famous persons of the world have their likenesses there. Also some of the worst. In the chamber of horrors are statues of murderers, some in actual clothes, and different methods of torture used in the old days. I hated to look at some of the exhibits.

Night before last and yesterday we spent looking around. We saw St. Paul's Cathedral, Big Ben, the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey, etc. Took in a couple of shows in Piccadilly Circus. This is like Broadway in New York. Shows and more shows line the streets. And dear! Jack and I went to the Windmill and we said: "The best seats, please." The girl says 8/6. In Canadian money that is two dollars. After getting our breath back we settled for a half-way seat at one dollar and eight cents. Altogether, we took in three big shows, so you can imagine what it cost us. But it was well worth it. There are some of the grandest theatres I ever saw in London. We went into a small cafe for lunch. We got a small plate of fish and chips (when I say small I mean small) and bottle of pop for half a crown, which is fifty-eight cents. Counting our room, eats and all luxuries, it cost us 2/10 each for the two days. This is approximately $22.50. You can see by this how money goes. However, it is only like this in London. In small towns things are much cheaper.

By the way, you remember writing me to visit Alley's sister. Well, I went to within twenty minutes' bus time from her place. Found out I left the address in my pack. I'll be sure and visit her next time I go to London. When this week is over the regiment is giving us a long week-end a month, so I'll be there often. We were going dancing in Cricklewood but changed our minds. It's just about twenty minutes from Trafalgar Square.

Well, Rose, I'm glad everyone enjoyed Xmas. I wish I could have been there. Maybe I will be home by the time next year rolls around. In the meantime, I'm going to do a lot of tall hopping.

So Alvin has another child, eh? Give him my congratulations, will you. I got a letter from Aunt Kate the other day too. I have three letters yet to answer.

I've met a few girls over here but none have lasted long. Just meet them at dances, or in the towns near by.

Well, Rose, I guess I've written about everything, so I'll quit for the present. I hope you and all are in the very best of health and hope to see you soon.

Yours sincerely,

Ken Munro.

P.S.—Please excuse this writing, Rose. I've so much writing to do and this is a lousy pen.

NEWS FROM KING CITY AND DISTRICT

Canadian Red Cross Society — King Township Branch News

The Red Cross meets an emergency.

When Coventry was destroyed, one Canadian military hospital had just been set up in a nearby Midland town. It had not yet been opened or supplied with nurses. The medical staff was on hand but had only the equipment required for a men's military hospital. Imagine their surprise when 150 babies of Coventry, under two years of age, were brought to the hospital on the same morning. Immediately they turned to the Canadian Red Cross for assistance and within two hours, a staff of 14 nurses, together with layettes, 100 feeding bottles and all the requirements for the care of babies, were on their way to relieve the emergency.

Just one instance of how the people of Canada through the Canadian Red Cross came to the aid of our kin folk. The Red Cross was ready. It would have been of little use that morning, if, on receipt of the call for help, we had started a fund in Canada for the supplying of those needed layettes, feeding bottles, etc. We Canadians would have contributed generously to such an appeal. But such action would have been too late. The Canadian Red Cross did not know that Coventry would be destroyed that night, but was ready for any emergency. Contribute generously to the Red Cross appeal. For your dollars you have the satisfaction of knowing that through your action some one will receive help when it is most needed.

Probably no more congenial and beloved personality has recently passed from our midst than Mr. Joseph O'Brien, whose death occurred on Saturday, April 18, at York County Hospital after a brief illness there. Having spent his life in this vicinity, and a member of an old and honoured family, his 82 years were filled with lasting friendships and the quality of kindness. He was the friend of old and young. As his years drew on his friends and associations in the locality were the richer and the happier for he was quick in sympathy and keen to appreciate the best in others. These rare characters pass our way, watchmen of man's faith in man; and builders of a city strong and fair.

"Temperance" and the election of officers were the matters which occupied the Pine Orchard Women's Institute when it met on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mrs. Elmer Starr.

The annual report of things done and money spent and on hand was very satisfactory. A huge carton of quilts, knitted articles etc. was ready for to send on its way, and more work was planned for the coming months. One item, to make little dresses. These will be made at the summer meetings.

The election of officers was a record-breaker for speed. Every officer went in by acclamation, and nobody said, "Oh I really can't act this year!" Again the war has made us duty conscious.

Our president and secretary have done such excellent work in the past year that it's a great pleasure to think they will continue to function in the coming year.

Mrs. Ewart took over the meeting and asked for the roll call. A temperance text from the Bible, this was well responded to. Then two excellent papers were read by Miss L. Starr and Mrs. Elmer Starr stressing the need for temperance in Canada. It was decided for various reasons to hold the institute meetings on Tuesday. One reason was that the men who drive their wives to the meeting can find Newmarket shops open on that day.

The meeting closed with God Save the King, after which delicious sandwiches were served and delicious maple syrup, manufactured on the spot, and at that very time.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ridley visited Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McLeod of Long Branch on Sunday.

Miss Dora McClure of Toronto spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Gordon McClure.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hunt on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson of Newmarket, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Kay and family and Mrs. Norman Kay.

Miss Olive Niles of Newmarket spent Sunday with Mrs. Douglas McClure.

Master Lorne Kay took tea on Sunday evening with Masters Jimmy and Charlie Howlett.

Mrs. Elmer Starr, in her capacity of District Sunday school superintendent, visited Bloomington and Lemonville on Sunday. She was accompanied by Mr. Starr.

Mrs. Alvin Ridley entertained Mrs. Douglas McClure at tea on Monday night.

Pie Raymond, Needler of Chatham spent the weekend at home. On Sunday evening he and Miss Doris Wilson, whose marriage will take place in the near future, were tendered a shower by friends at Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harper and Mr. Roy Harper spent Monday in Toronto.

Miss Sadie McQueen spent the weekend at her home in Stayner. The only remaining sister of Mrs. Robert Storey was buried in Elmwood cemetery, Perth, on Sunday. She was 86 years of age. Mrs. Storey will be 90 on April 27.

Things

"War Changes" It struck me, just the other day, that I would like to have my say about one change the war has brought, and what it has wrought.

Specifically, of what its changed women taught. I'm thinking now, specifically, of what the times when women meet and hold a meeting quite complete with parliamentary rites observed, and real opinions gladly heard. In peacetime, programs went by rule, just like a well-trained pleasant school; the Maple Leaf, the Ode, the Creed, we'd sing and say, quite well indeed. And then the minutes, business too, would follow in a pattern true; the roll call, topic, music sweet, would follow then, our ears to greet. "O Canada" at last we'd sing, and then our hostesses would bring, fine sandwiches and dainty cake and rules of diet we would break, enjoying this, enjoying that, all interspersed with friendly chat.

And then, off home we'd take our way, content with a most pleasant day. But now, the war has found us out, and made us take a right about. We sing each patriotic song as if we really did belong to Canada, great land and fair, and felt no effort we should spare, to guard our ideals, homes and land from evil and marauding hand.

Our meetings, too, are workman-like, and no one does her duty shirk. We sew on quilts, some knit war socks, while others cut out little frocks, and though we're busy with our hands, our eyes and ears, can, on demand, take in the business of the hour and give it all our best brain power. Each paper and each magazine, which heretofore have always been things which when we read them through, we didn't know quite what to do; and bones which dogs and birds had picked about the lawn were always kicked; but now, when they are picked quite bare, we gather them with tender care, for they are needed in the drive to make our great war effort, thrive.

All this at meetings we discuss, and vow to do our duty, plus. And when the meeting's duty o'er, we rise and let our voices soar, in words familiar to our ears, but sung now, when beset by fears, as never sung in former years. In fact we've learned that when we sing, it's just a prayer, "God Save The King." Then sandwiches, a cup of tea are pleasant, you will all agree, when interspersed with friendly chat about the war, and this and that. And then, with thankful hearts we go, towards our homes, for well we know no bomb on them has crashed, while we were drinking peaceful cups of tea. Then for today, as every day, "Thank God For Canada," we say.

More than 300 Washington, D.C., taxicabs have been selected to serve as ambulances during black-outs.

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Arthur van Nost-rand last Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of 23. The president presided and the meeting was opened by singing the Institute Ode and National Anthem. After the secretary had read the minutes of the last meeting, financial report and correspondence it was decided to appoint a committee consisting of the Institute executive, representatives of the Farmers' Club, Y.P.U., the Ladies' Aid and any others who would like to help the Women's Institute raise some money for their work to meet at the home of Mrs. A. VanNost-rand Thursday evening of this week, to discuss and arrange for a community auction sale. It takes money to pay for wool to knit for our soldiers, to buy quilt materials and for the boys' boxes, so the Women's Institute will be very glad of help to carry on this work. Since last October our Institute members have knitted 54 pairs of socks, 18 sleeveless and 15 turtle-neck sweaters, 10 scarfs, 29 pairs of mitts and turned in 13 large quilts and 10 small ones, and made 14 pairs of pyjamas, eight ladies' night-gowns and nine pairs of little girls' drawers.

Do not destroy anything that will serve for munition work. Gather together old papers, magazines, pasteboard, rags, rubber, fats, bones and metals. Take these to Mrs. VanNost-rand's garage and when there is enough for a load they will be sold. This is house-cleaning time. Do not hoard unnecessary things. Let them see our country, helping to make munitions, or give them to someone in need.

Had she lived until the 24th of this month she would have been 98 years of age, and she retained her clear intellect to the end. Mr. Nelson Bostwick predeceased her six years ago this March, and their son Charles four years ago next month. Miss Meta Middlebrook of Armitage spent the weekend with Miss Jean White.

North Gwillimbury Red Cross

On Wednesday and Thursday, April 29 and 30, the regular monthly meeting of the township branch Red Cross will be held in Belhaven Hall. Keswick unit in charge of preparations. It is earnestly hoped that as many as possible will attend as a most important matter is being presented for the approval of the women of this township.

At the present time, when Canada and even Ontario are facing such grave danger from the enemy at its gates, it is felt imperative that every citizen should be so equipped that they can defend themselves in any situation caused by either bombs or epidemics. Remember, war brings both. So it is that Red Cross headquarters is presenting two plans that everyone should take advantage of. These will be dealt with at length on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when it is hoped that some satisfactory plan can be arranged.

As for both plans, trained nurses are essential. It is earnestly asked that all graduate nurses, married or single, in the township, make a special effort to be present. The hour, 2:30 on Thursday, April 30. Let's all get behind this great opportunity and be prepared should the time of urgent need arise. With more and more doctors being called for the forces this opportunity is a timely one.

On Sunday I saw swallows skimming over the surface of the water at Fairley Lake. Scores of them, and gulls too! The air is full of bird voices, but I haven't the time to wait and see what bird it is. There are so many, many things to be done once spring really establishes herself.

And before I go and get to work again on my perennial bed out in the garden, may I say a word about something quite apart from all this. To say how I enjoyed "Forty-ninth Parallel" last week, and again "One Foot In Heaven" this week, I wish I had a permanent pass if the Strand continues to put on such splendid pictures. They are as different as the north and south poles, but each perfect in its way. And now "How Green Was My Valley" is coming, so I'll have to see it.

YORK COUNTY PROBATION WORK IS HELD WORTHY OF EXTENSION

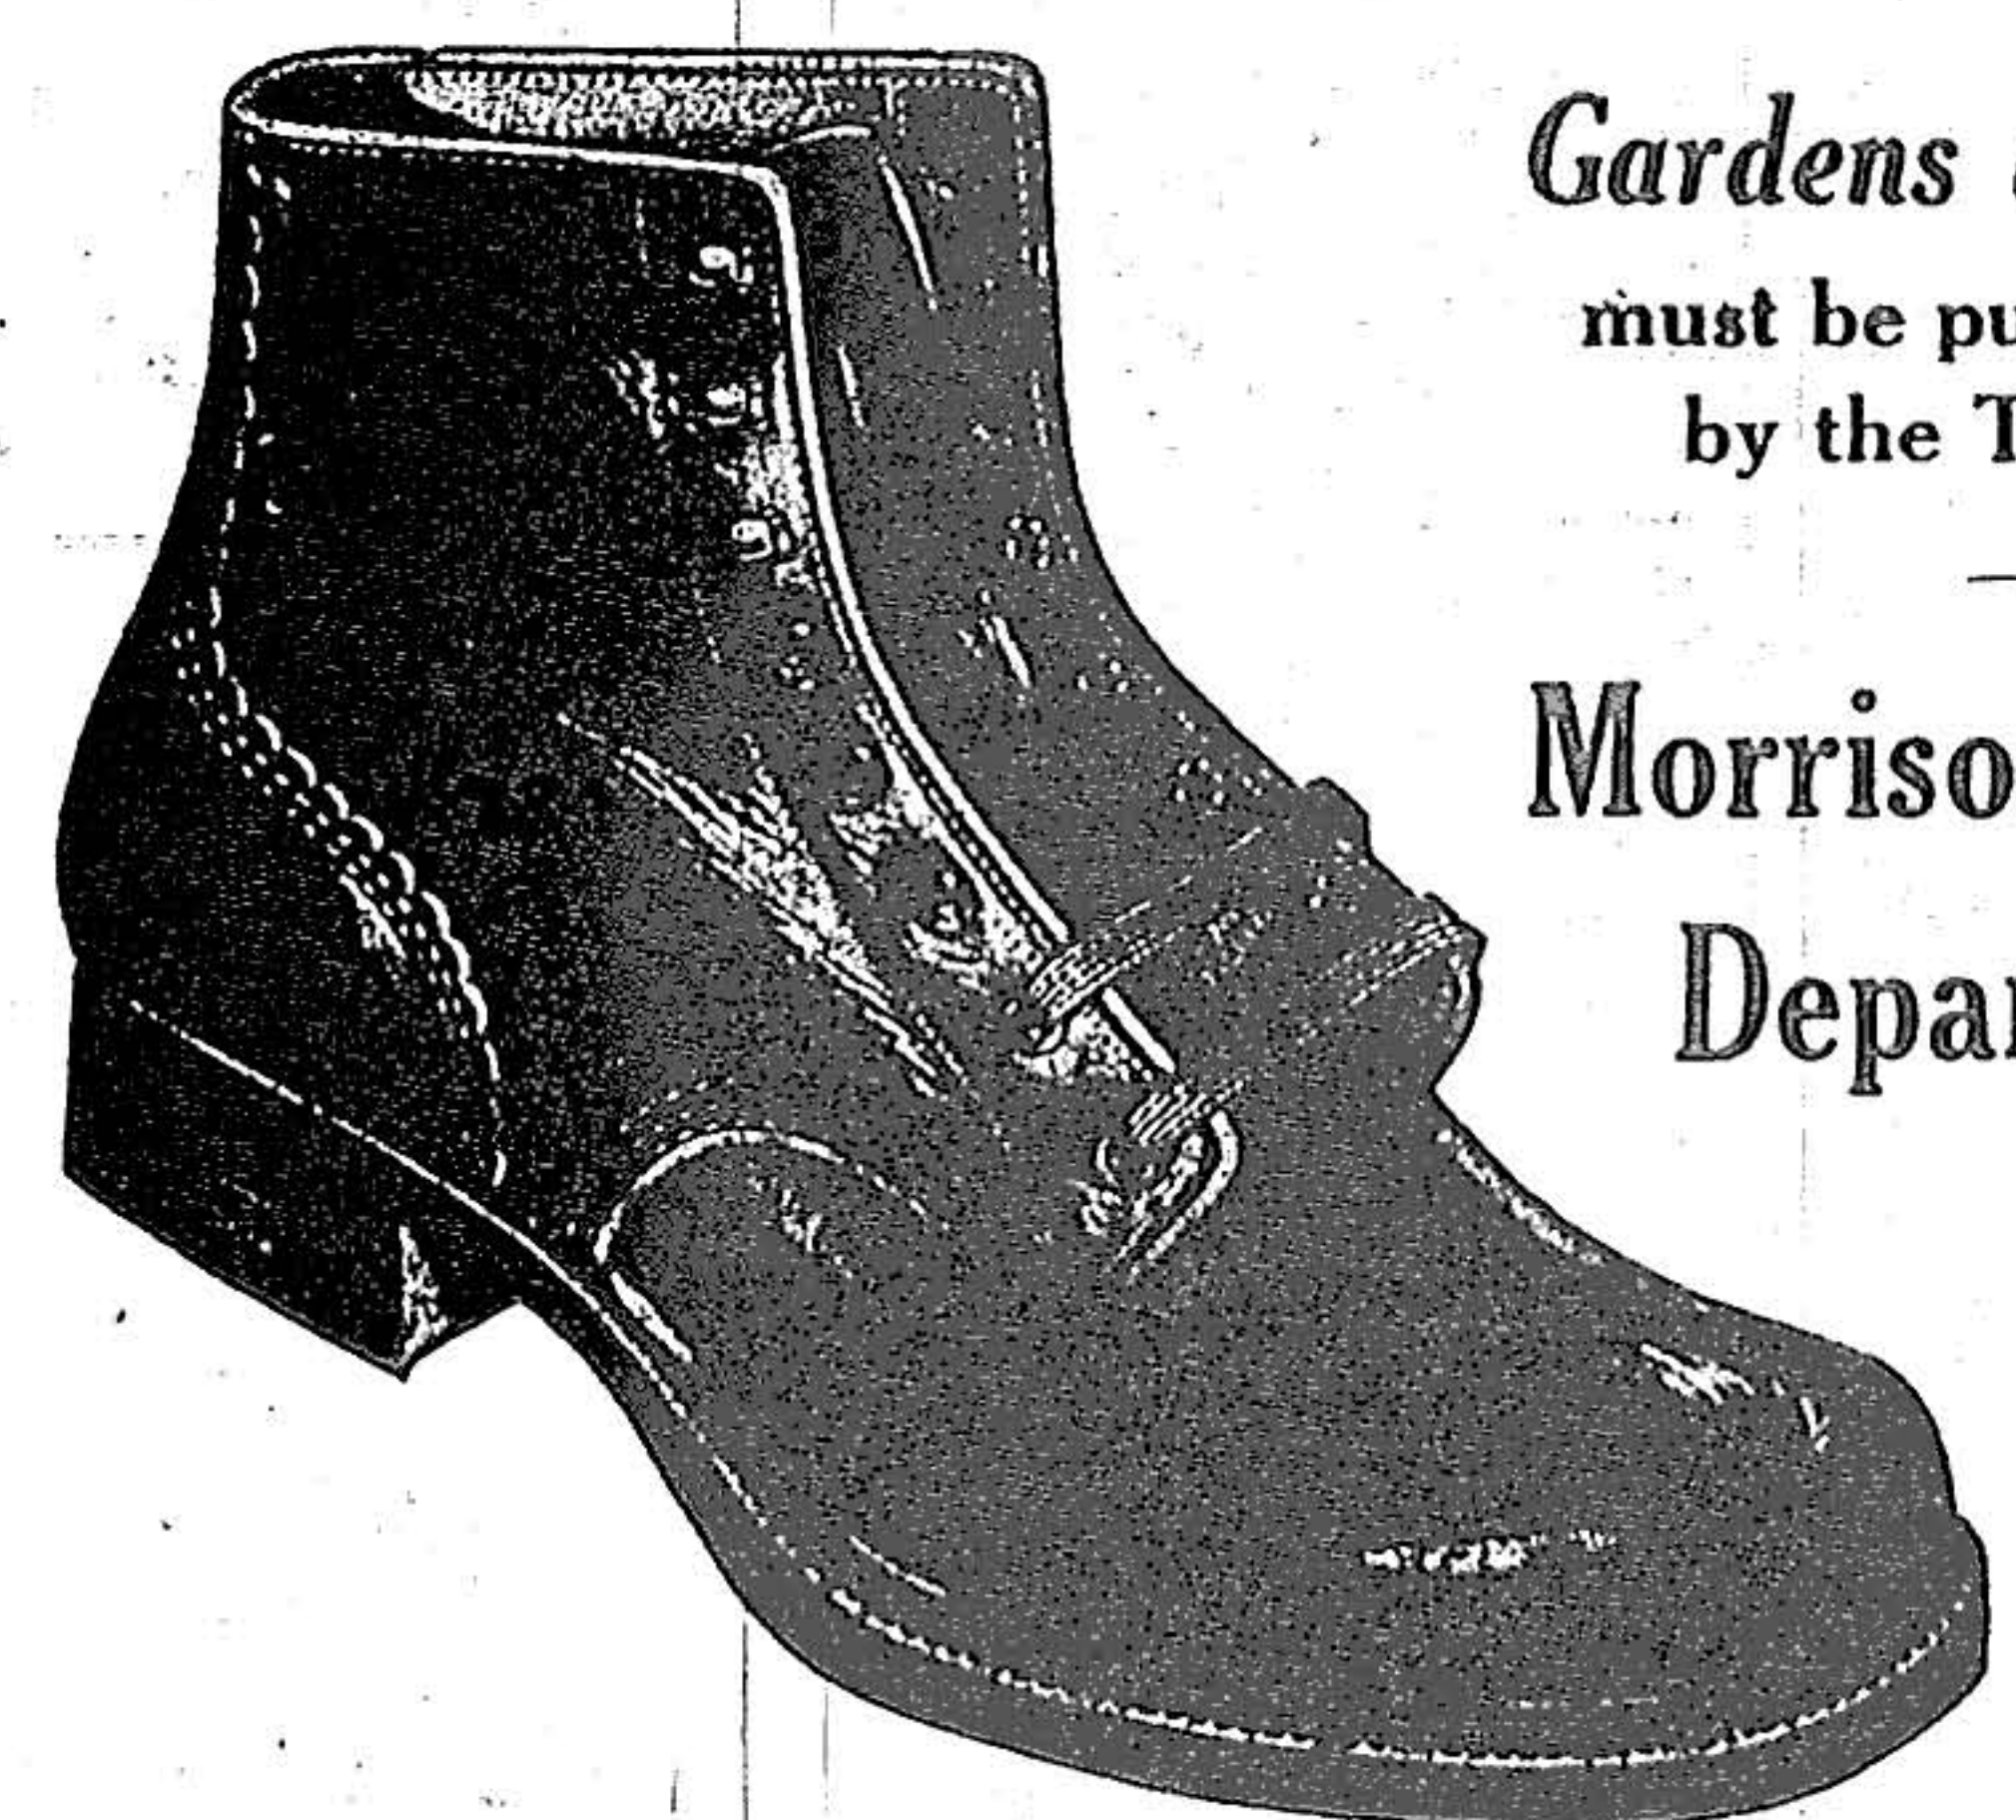

Results in adult probation, since its inception in York County in November, 1922, "justify the hope" that it may be possible to extend the system to other thickly populated sections, Attorney-General Conant said last night in releasing the annual report of Judge H. S. Mott.

A substantial saving has been effected in institutional expense by the system and, said Mr. Conant, it is much better that correction be effected outside rather than inside institutions.

Judge Mott reported that of the 11,056 adults placed on probation since the system was introduced, there were 1,183, or 10.7 per cent cases discharged as "reappeared and sentenced." The judge commented: "When one considers the difficult days we have gone through, starting with the aftermath of the Great War, continuing through the times of depression, and now entering a second war of more serious import, one might be pardoned for feeling that the Probation Department has served those it sought to serve with a remarkable degree of efficiency." In the year closing March 31, 1942, 454 were placed on probation—381 men and seventy-three women. Nearly 60 per cent of them were under 18.
